

Animal Science

KNOWLEDGE CHALLENGE
2022

Have YOU got the Animal Science Knowledge?

bsas
2022
The role of animals
in human and planetary health

bsas
2022
The role of
animals
in human and planetary health

We're inviting the finest minds from institutions across the country, to come and battle it out at the BSAS 2022 conference on the 12th April 2022, in a show of brute animal science strength, to be crowned the 'Animal Science Knowledge Champions 2022'.

To enter, what you'll need to do is gather together a winning team, comprising of your fellow students and faculty. Those that can bring the knowledge but won't crack under the pressure of the house lights and the noise of the buzzer. To keep things fair, teams are to be made up of six people and can only have a maximum of two faculty members. We will be checking! Also, there can only be one team per institution.

Dependent on the number of entries received, there may be virtual pre-qualifying rounds, but this will be confirmed in due course, and you will be contacted.

12th April 2022, 18:00 - 19:30
Application Deadline: 31st December 2021

To apply please email bsas@bsas.org.uk with details of your institution and each team member.

It costs just £35 per person to enter, but this includes access to our delicious buffet spread, which will make the perfect celebratory dinner, or a great place to drown your sorrows. Although drinks are not included in the entry price, there will be a well-stocked bar.

There is an exclusive package available of £105 per person, which includes access to the buffet and a full day pass to the BSAS 2022 conference, giving you the chance to network with other leading animal science experts from across the globe.