

Steve Bishop Net Zero Award 2021

Calling all fledgling animal scientists and technologists

Sponsored by KTN, this scholarship is aimed at those in the early stages of their animal science career (postgraduate student or within three years of graduating with a PhD, or those working in commerce or industry with an equivalent level of experience without necessarily having a PhD).

Worth up to £5,000, the award is to specifically support a short research project that is connected to working towards achieving net zero in a livestock farming environment.

If you have a project that meets this criteria complete the on-line application form.

It is international scientific consensus that, in order to prevent the worst climate damages, global net human-caused emissions of carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) need to fall by about 45 percent from 2010 levels by 2030, reaching net zero around 2050.
