

Benefits of Corporate Membership

Full range of member benefits for named staff:

- Access to Animal, a monthly journal providing up-to-date information on the science helping to shape and improve global livestock production.
- Access to BSAS On-demand, our library of video content providing access to the latest presentations at our conferences and opportunities for continuing professional development
- Regular newsletters and email updates.
- Discounts to leading animal science workshops and seminars, including the BSAS annual conference.
- Support and advice from BSAS' network of leading academics and scientists, plus links to animal-science organisations world-wide.
- Increasing engagement and influence of corporate groups upon the business of the society.
- Free membership of the European Federation of Animal Production.

Free membership of BSAS professional registers:

- Assuring professional competence and status.
- Giving national and international recognition to skills, knowledge and experience.
- Providing support for career opportunities.
- Creating a culture of training and skills development within organisations.
- Verifying responsible conduct and practice.
- Maintaining up-to-date knowledge through continuing professional development.
- Increasing opportunities to provide expert advice and opinion.

Automatic membership of the Industry Association offering:

- Opportunities to initiate and drive industry-led initiatives and sessions at the BSAS annual conference.
- Direct access to members of the BSAS Academia Association to help develop research projects.
- Access to world-class postgraduate and graduate students fresh from Academia Association institutes.
- The chance to develop the BSAS accreditation scheme to develop vital continued professional development.
- Sponsorship opportunities.

Support in staff recruitment and development:

- Corporate (Industry Association) members have access to the Academia Association portal where they can view the details of promising animal scientists that are currently undertaking PhD research within Academia Association institutes.
- Corporate (Industry Association) members can advertise vacancies on the BSAS website.